

Illamurta Springs Conservation Reserve

Fact Sheet

This Reserve is one of the most peaceful and isolated reserves in the Parks and Wildlife Commission estate. Its natural values are due to the impressive southern foothills of the James Range and the presence of a permanent natural spring. The 129 hectare Reserve provides a moist habitat for several relict aquatic plant species, and also protects the ruins of the Illamurta Springs Police Station which was operational between 1893 and 1912.

The Police Station functioned for a time as an administrative centre and as a distribution point of rations to Aboriginal people.

This is an important cultural site for the Southern Arrernte (Pertame) Aboriginal people as it forms part of the extensive 'Kuniya-Snake' (Python) Dreaming. A large number of stone artefacts, including fragments of grindstones, occur in the Reserve providing evidence of Aboriginal occupation.

Access

Park entry fees - Parks Pass applies (NT residents exempt).

Located 192 km from Alice Springs, access to the Reserve is via the Stuart Highway and Ernest Giles Road, or from Palm Valley via the Finke River 4WD Route. All roads leading to the Reserve are unsealed, sandy and occasionally inaccessible following heavy rain. The tracks are 4WD only due to their unstable and changing road surfaces.

If you are planning to drive the Finke River

4WD Route ensure you are well equipped and prepared with a satellite phone or personal locator beacon, extra food, water and spare tyres. A Finke River 4WD Route information sheet is available from Parks and Wildlife (contact details at the bottom of the page).

For a safe trip carry an EPIRB, Personal Locator Beacon or Satellite Phone. Inform a reliable person of your travel plans and intended day of return.

When to visit

The Reserve is accessible all year round. The cooler months (April to September) are the most pleasant times to visit.
