

Changes to planning application exhibition signage

An improved generic stock sign design for public notice of ALL planning applications will soon be introduced across the Northern Territory.

The newly designed 'pink' signs are required for public notification of the following application types:

- Development (D) or Subdivision (S)
- Exceptional Development (EDP)
- Planning Scheme Amendment (PSA i.e. rezoning);
- Concurrent (CA i.e. rezoning and development or subdivision).

What are stock signs?

An improved generic pink sign for ALL application types will streamline the notification process while maintaining essential information for public engagement.

The improved pink sign design includes:

- An enlarged QR code that is more visible and accessible at a distance, and links directly to the planning notices website
- Fields for completion of the essential application details:
 - the date submissions close
 - the application number (i.e. PA2026/0001)
 - the application type (i.e. Development, Subdivision, Exceptional Development, Planning Scheme Amendment, Concurrent)
 - address of the subject property
 - parcel the title reference (i.e. Lot/Section X Town of X/ Hundred of X)
 - current zone(s) the current zone of the subject property
 - description of the proposed application

- Signs will be available for collection from offices of the Department of Lands, Planning and Environment in Darwin, Katherine and Alice Springs from 8am to 4pm business days.
- Signs are to be collected no later than Thursday, the day before exhibition commences.
- Details for collection and the application information for completion of the sign fields, will be provided in the Guidelines for Public Notice of an Application, available through your Development Applications Online account by viewing the relevant application and referring to the exhibition/notification section under the registration tab.

What you need to know

All applications will continue to include an image of the proposed development to appear alongside the application details on the Planning Notices Online webpage during the exhibition period. You will be prompted to upload an image of the proposed development when you make your application. The image should be reflective of the proposed development and could include a perspective, elevation or site plan. The image is to be saved as a JPEG or PNG file.

Applications accepted and lodged, with the application fee paid by 12 midday Wednesday may commence exhibition on the Friday.

An example timeline is provided below:

 subject to no further information required*

What you should do

Work backwards from your desired exhibition date and submit your application within the necessary timeframe.

Ensure that your application contains all the necessary information and documents to avoid any undue delays. The Lodgement Guide: Development Application can assist you in preparing the documents.

You will receive email notifications through the process with links to your Development Applications Online account advising of:

- When to make payment of the application fee
- The exhibition period and signage requirements
- The end of the exhibition period and signage declaration

Remember to remove your sign(s) within one week after the end of the exhibition period
