

Pigs
don't fly,
but
you
do.

African swine fever (ASF) is a contagious disease that's spreading rapidly and will devastate Australia's pork industry if it gets in. We all share the responsibility to protect Australia against ASF.

Do your bit by declaring all products specified on your incoming passenger card when travelling and reporting any international mail containing meat, animal products or farm equipment to the See.Secure. Report hotline 1800 798 636.

Pull the pork. Protect our border.

If it looks suss, call us 1800 675 888.
