What happens now?

Thank you for submitting an application to register as an interpreter.

AIS will contact you in relation to this application. If found suitable and AIS is currently recruiting for your language, we will contact you to do a Language Assessment. This is to check if your language skills (English and Aboriginal language) are currently strong enough to start induction training to become an interpreter.

You can contact _____ on (phone) _____ at AIS to follow-up the progress with your application.
